Uncertainty is a situation which involves imperfect or unknown information. It applies to predictions of future events, to physical measurements that are already made, or to the unknown. Uncertainty arises in partially observable and/or stochastic environments, as well as due to ignorance, indolence, or both. It arises in any number of fields, including insurance, philosophy, physics ...

In quantum mechanics, the uncertainty principle (also known as Heisenberg's uncertainty principle) is any of a variety of mathematical inequalities asserting a fundamental limit to the precision with which certain pairs of physical properties of a particle, known as complementary variables or canonically conjugate variables such as position  $x$  and momentum  $p$ , can be known.

Thus, the linguistic worldview (C) (= in Fig. 1) asserts that Science (more precisely, non-physical science) is to describe the world by quantum language. Therefore, the metaphysics called quantum language is located in the center of science.

First, let's consider how probabilities are ordinarily computed: When an event consists of two mutually exclusive events, its probability is the sum of the probabilities of those two events. Similarly, when an event is the conjunction of two statistically independent events, its probability is the product of the probabilities of those two events. ...

A CBM program consists of three key steps (see Fig. 1): 1. Data acquisition step (information collecting), to obtain data relevant to system health. 2. Data processing step (information handling), to handle and analyse the data or signals collected in step 1 for better understanding and interpretation of the data.

However, the steps are the same. They are: ...
